PRAY

- For the Protestant Church in Oman (PCO) to offer Christians in Oman a spiritual home where they can grow.
- For a deepening partnership and a love of the neighbor among the PCO, the government, and the people of Oman.
- For the Christian community in Oman to increasingly live out the reconciliation they have in Christ for all to see.
- For the Bode family to be bridge-builders back in North America, bearing witness to what the Holy Spirit is doing through the global church.

About the ministry

At dawn in the city of Muscat, a call to prayer fills the desert air. It's the same call that echoes against the buildings every day, five times a day. It is against this backdrop in Oman, a Muslim-majority nation, that God calls Christians to bear witness to peace and reconciliation in Christ. This call is lived out, in part, through the Protestant Church in Oman and the dozens of congregations in its care.

Josh Bode serves the PCO congregations as they build bridges and love their neighbors in Oman. They are from half a hundred countries, more than twice that many Christian traditions, and every socioeconomic class under the sun. This international body of believers serves Jesus in Oman, bears witness to Christian unity within human diversity, all while seeking to increase the global church. Josh also serves as the Director of Operations and Ecumenical Affairs at the Al Amana Centre in Oman.
