

Rawee and Nui Bunupuradah

PRAY

- That Rawee and Nui would continue to experience gospel renewal and transformation in their family and friendships.
- That Rawee and Nui would love and serve the people of Bangkok with faithfulness.
- For the formation and growth of a disciple-making community shaped by the gospel and sent out to serve.
- For the formation and growth of a training hub that serves pastors and leaders in urban Bangkok and beyond.

About the ministry

The deep, gong-like vibrations of Buddhist bells call individuals to prayer in Thailand. The sound carries through the air, and the bell's pulse lingers in people's bones. It's a daily reminder of religion's strong presence.

In a culture deeply intertwined with Buddhism, less than one percent of the Thai population confesses Jesus Christ as Lord. Rawee Bunupuradah and his partners at United World Mission are working to strengthen the pulse of Christianity in Thailand.

Rawee and his wife, Nui, serve alongside Thai pastors and leaders through disciple-making, training, coaching, and spiritual formation to plant and grow churches that reach their communities with the gospel and prepare the next generation of Christian leaders.

To learn more or support this ministry, visit:

www.rca.org/bunupuradah
rawee@rca.org

